From the amount of blowing indulged in by the Garnett papers, a stranger would think they had a wonderful crowd on the Fourth of July. As to numbers present we had just about three times as many at Iola, but did not consider it such a wonderful affair after all. It is fair to presume the editors up there never saw more than eight or ten strange faces in town at one time. Come down some time and see a live town, a railroad center, and the headquarters of the only great through line from Topeka, via Iola and Girard to Memphis.

The Iola Driving Association having affected a thorough organization and elected a full corps of officers, have announced to hold a summer meeting at the Fair Grounds, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 21st, 22d and 23d inst. All the best horses in the country have been invited to be here, a good number of which have already responded favorably, and some are in training on the track. Taking into consideration the influence, energy and grit of the officers elected, as well as those leading citizens who are aiding them, is all evidence that the meeting can not and will not be else than a success. The track is being improved, and will be in excellent condition and the managers take pleasure in announcing that an amphitheatre will be built on the grounds, so that ladies and gentlemen can sit in comfort and view the sport. Ample arrangements will be made to furnish edibles and luxuries on the grounds, besides many other amusements. All lovers of sport and the turf may be assured of an enjoyable time, and a successful meeting is every particular is anticipated.

In his rambles about town this week the attention of our reporter was called to the clothing store of Anderson & DeClute. There are few cities in Kansas that can boast of a finer establishment. Their room 20x80, is on the corner, giving them a nice side show-window. For evening they have eight fine library lamps, three on a side and two in front, which shows their stock to good advantage at that time. Their counters or tables are of a new design for this state. They are made of black walnut, with French plate glass tops; underneath being drawers filled with goods which makes a rich display. The change one year has made in this block was forcibly brought to mind. Less than one year ago where now stands this block, there stood dilapidated frame buildings. The owners of the building, Messrs Scott, and Anderson & DeClute deserve credit for the enterprise they have shown which has given us a fine hall. They gave their second story, and also took a large share of the stock. The hall is 42x80 and 16 feet in the clear. The entrance is wide and safe, the doors being double and double butts on same. As soon as it can be finished we shall have one of the finest halls in Southern Kansas.

The Ball.

At a meeting of those interested held at THE REGISTER office Monday night, every arrangement was made for the ball to-night. It was decided that while a general invitation would be apt to crowd the hall too much, and that only those who had guests who wished to attend would be welcome. In addition, special invitations were sent to a few only outside of Iola. Those who attend the ball will be provided with a ribbon on which will be printed "Invited Guest." These ribbons can be procured of the invitation committee to-day. The hall will be decorated and everything put in as good shape as possible.

At 2:30 sharp the excursionists and citizens of Iola will reassemble at the city hall, and will be addressed by Gen. Chas. W. Blair, on "Kansas—present and future," to be followed by impromptu speeches by citizens and excursionists.

Adjournment for supper at 6 p. m.

At 7:30 p. m. the Odd Fellows' Hall will be thrown open for a social entertainment, to continue during the evening. At the same hour also the city hall will be arranged for a grand ball—good music will be provided where the votaries of Terpsichore can enjoy themselves.

At 1 o'clock a. m., Saturday morning, the train with the excursionists will start on their return to Fort Scott.

DEER CREEK.

The senior editor and wife left here the 20th of June to visit their son Henry in Iola, Kansas, and returned the 30th. Their visit was a pleasant one, apparently to all concerned, the weather, and their health, as well as other matters, being comfortable.

Henry and his family being reasonably well and prosperous, and every week day of the visit he was holding district court in that same city. During their brief stay they visited the Pickle girls, Elizabeth and Mary Jane, the former married to a Mr. Beck, the latter to a Dr. Fulton, both apparently well mated, prosperous and happy, having good homes, and the former now two children.

Starting home the visitors stopped at Garnett, 25 miles north, and visited a night and a half a day with Charlie Gregg and family, the wife being E. B. Ball's sister Anna.

The older children of this family are well employed as clerks in stores, and the third, the youngest, helps her mother and is qualifying for some other future usefulness. The two girls play together on the organ, making splendid music though the book has been their only teacher. Mr. Gregg, though being physically feeble, is intelligent, and seems devoted to the making of his children happy, free and useful. Anna would be known at Valparaiso by her wonderfully close resemblance, as she grows old, to her late lamented mother, Grandma Ball.
